17,481 4519,831.00 A CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION.

upreme Court Commissioners' Power Questioned.
Topeka, Kan., Oct. 7.—In a suit before TOPERA, Kan., Oct. 7.—In a suit before the Supreme Court, the question of the constitutionality of the law creating the offices of the three Supreme Court Commissioners is raised. The action is that of William Kelly, a minor, against the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Guif railread for damages sustained by him in 1881. A jury in the district court gave him a judgment for $4,000, from which the company appealed to the Supreme Court, but was defeated at the last term, Judge Clogston, one of the Supreme Court Commissioners writing the opinion. The company claims that the Commissioner had no legal right to render a decision, upon the ground that the law creating the office was unconstitutional and void. The attorney for the company, and void. The attorney for the company General C. W. Biair, of Leavenworth, hold: that the Supreme Court has no power to del-egate its power. The creation of this tribu-nal, he claims, was an inconsiderate attempt by the Legislature to relieve the Supreme Court. To be constitutional the tribunal must be a court. If this Commission be a court at all it is not inferior in jurisdiction to the Supreme Court, for its members receive the same salary, paid in the same manner as Supreme Judges, and it assumes to examine and deede cases that are appealed to the Supreme Court. If it can do this legally then it is the equal of the Supreme Court both in jurisdiction and dignity, and is not authorized by the constitution, but is specially interdicted by constitutional limitations.

YELLOW FEVER.

The People of Tamps, Fis., Panie Stricken Over the Outbreak.

The Town Depopulated-Condition et the Cholera Patients-Virulence of the Disease.

The Captain of the Infected Vessel Arrested-Miners Killed and Injured in Kentucky.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The Marine Hos-pital Bureau has received a telegram from Deputy Collector Spencer, of Tampa, Fia, of which the following is a copy: "Twenty-six cases in all; two deaths; questionable as to cause of death of the two; majority of the sick convalescing; town depopulated and very little material left; doctors disagree as to whether the disease is dengue or yellow fever." Dr. George W. Stoner, chief of the quarantine division, says that if it is dengue there is no cause for alarm nor necessity for rigid quarantine, but, if doubt exists, it is proper to act on the side of safety. Dengue, or as it is sometimes called, breaktone fever, is a very distressing, infectious disease—not contagious in the usual acceptance of the term and rarely fatal unless complicated with other diseases. It prevailed in the West Indies and many pluces in the South about fifty years ago, and was prevalent in many Southern cities in 1830, especially in Charleston, where about four-fifths of the population were attacked, but only a few deaths, relatively, occurred. In yellow fever, on the other hand, the mortality is sometimes as high as seventy-five per cent. Dr. Stoner believes that the disease at Tampa is yellow fever. The Acting Surgeon General has also received the following telegram from Tampa: "Arrangements will be made to fumigate mails between Plant City and Lakeland on the line of the road. Through mails from Havana and Key West are funigated on board ships the same as has been done all summer."

THE CHOLERA CASES.

NEW YORK Oct. 10.—Health Officer Smith has prepared a report of the cholera cases that were thrust upon his hands by the steamship Alexia, from Naples. It states steamship Alesia, from Naples. It states that the disease has been very virulent and rapid in its fatality in the majority of cases. In several instances the patients were well at one inspection and nearly pulseless twelve hours later. The report also describes how the vessel was fumigated, thoroughly washed with boiling water twice and afterward with a solution of corrosive sublimate, two parts to 1,800 of water. All clothing and textile fabrics were soaked in the boiling water for hours, and 100 pounds of sulphur were twice burned in the hold. Of the eight removed from the ship on her arrival, five died and three recovered. Of those who recovered, five are convalescent and the remaining two are seriously ill. Dr. Smith thinks the infection is now entirely destroyed. infection is now entirely destroyed.

THE CAPTAIN ARRESTED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Surveyor Beattie has preferred charges against Captain Vallet of the steamship Alesia, which arrived here from Naples two weeks ago with cholera on board. It is alleged that the cholera on board. It is alleged that the captain did not provide proper hospitals for his passengers; that he failed to provide tables and seats for the steerage passengers and that in his manifest of passengers he did not give the cause of death of those who died on the passage. Captain Vallet was held in $5,000 for the grand jury.

Kansas City's Big Week.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 10.—To-morrow evening will occur the military and civic societies parade with the flambeau club. Wednesday night the President will arrive, when the trades display will take place. Thursday will be devoted to Presidential certificity with the President of Pallas nafestivities, with the Priests of Pallas parade and ball at night. A great week will be put in at the Exposition with the Cow-boy band, of Dodge City, Kan. The Inter-State fair and races across the river is also procedented for festivities in this city. Duel Prevented. Berlix, Oct. 10.—Baron Solmacher, a member of the Prussian Oberhaus, challenged Baron Schorleimer to a duel on account of a political dispute. The Archbishop of Cologne interfered and excommunicated Baron Solmacher, the writ of excommunication being read in the parish church of the Solmacher family. The Baron subsequently went to the Archbishop and asked pardon for his breach of the laws of the church and the excommunication was raised.

A Surprised Freacher.

Boerox, Oct. 5.—Josephine Miller, an amateur actress and public reader of high reputation with his labors among the destitute. The incident occurred last winter, and is literally true. He found in the course of his examination of a certain district a woman who was not only wretchedly destitute, but seriously ill besides. She seemed a very decent and not undeserving person, an impression which accorded with the reputation given her by her neighbors; and the missionary interested himself in her behalf. Every thing needful for the comfort of the woman was done. Her room was kept in order, she was provided with a nurse, the young ladies brought her delicacies, and when at last the patient was thoroughly convalescent, they presented her with $5, as a help toward starting once more on the way of earning her own living. A day or two later the missionary called, and was pleasantly received by the poor woman, who evinced due gratitude for all the kindness she had received. Then with overflowing self-satisfaction and an absolutely childlike delight the pauper produced from a closet a new and remarkably gay bonnet. "There's she said, beaming with satisfaction, "don't you think that is pretty! All my life I've wanted a bonnet with a feather in it, and when I got that $5 all at once, I said to myself that now was my chance to have one. The man asked $7 for it, but I told him $5 twas all I had and he'd have to let me have it for that; and true as you're alive hedid."

CRICAGO, Oct. 6.—About 50,000 per

There was no music until the procession you to Twenty-third street, and the crowds did nothing but look at the President and Mrs. Cleveland. Closing up behind the carriages came the Milwaukee light horse aquadron and battery F, fourth artillery, U. B. A. The crowd had yelled itself hoarse, cheering for the fresident, when the second divisions awang into line at the corner of Michigan awenne and Twenty-third street. On Twenty-third street, Wabush neamen and Twenty-third street, Wabush neamen and Twenty-third street. Wabush neamen and Twenty-third street was neamen and Twenty-third street. On Twenty-third street, Wabush neamen and Twenty-second street the parements were packed as never before in the history of Chicago. On the tops of houses and in the windows were crowds of eager faces, and from roofs and windows floated streamers, evidently improvised hurriedly for the occasion. At Twenty-second street was repetition of the depot scene, and a man might as well have attempted to walk through a brick wall as to force his way into the mist of this fence of men and women.

The main procession street promptly at ten o'clock in the following order: The President and reception committee, preceded by General Charles Fitzsimmons, chief marshal; Colonel Henry C. Corbin, chief of staff, and aids. Then came the various military organizations and civic societies.

As the procession moved along the President was kept busy bowing and smiling. Most of the time he was uncovered. The ladies seemed particularly naxious to get a good look at the President's wife, and many of them were more aggressive in thrusting themselves forward than were the men. It was a succession of ovations the President received all along the route. Up Michigan avenue there extended thousands and thousands of spectators. Faces looked out of every window; men were to be seen on the roofs of houses, and all over flashed the standitorium building the si

It was 1:25 p. m. when the last of the long procession had passed the President and the crowd began to disperse, but there was such a crush that the President could not leave the platform for some time. Finally he got away almost faint with hunger and exertion and was driven to the Palmer House to eat dinner and prepara for the reception in half an hour.

With one frantic cheer crashing through the great rotunda, a mob of 100,000 people rushed like wild beasts at President Cleveland and his wife in the afternoon in the Palmer House. It was the reception to the Palmer House. It was the reception to the general public, and the Chief Magistrate with his radiant companion had just descended the main staircase. So thunderrous was the din that the score of perspiring trumpeters seemed making a dumbshow. In vain did the police, clubs in hand, attempt to still the rush. The rope was swept away at the first ouset, and it was well that a nook of safety had been provided for Mrs. Cleveland. Immediately to the right of the staircase was an alcoye almost hidden in silken bunting and waving green plants. Into this she was hastily thrust, while the President, giving a single sweeping glance at the surging crowd, planged into its midst and sturdily shouldered himself into the place it had been decided he should stand.

Three times did files of dismounted cavalrymen seize the ends of the ropes that had been dashed to the floor, and strive to drag back the eager multitude. Only with the aid of a double cordon of police—the front line bucking against the crowd and the second rank pushing their comrades forward
—did the lasso maneuver of the soldiera
bring a faint semblance of order.

Bosrox, Oct. 5.—Josephine Miller, an amateur actress and public reader of high reputation, was arrested pesterday on the charge of stealing property from the residence of Rev. Julian Smith, paster of the Church of New Jerusalem at Boston Highlands. Mr. Smith let his residence during his summer vacation to Miss Miller. Returning home he found the house vacated and over $200 worth of brice-bruc, house furnishings, missing. Soon bills came in for several cases of champagne which had been charged to the clergyman. From the neighbors and police he learned that the house had been every night the scene of wildest revelry. A Surprised Preach
